

“Chorus-Girl”

Bodenheim, Maxwell, 1892-1954

Her voice was like a rose-fragrance waltzing in the wind.
She seemed a shadow stained with shadow colors
Swinging through waves of sunlight.
Perhaps her heart was an old minstrel
Sleepily pawing at his little mandolin.